Princeton Students Struggle With Ideas, Skills In Academic Life

Princeton's academic program challenged students in a variety of ways as Vikings struggled with ideas, fought to grasp new concepts . . . Many different challenging situations arose as more than 150 courses were offered . . . Math provided a challenge in mastering numbers . . . Home Economics offered a puzzle of piecing together a dress . . . English presented a challenge of communication . . . Music supplied a challenge of harmony, blending of notes and voices . . . Art held a challenge of creation, a painting in bright bold colors, a soft pastel drawing . . . and, in this way, the courses offered students the challenge of succeeding, of boldly facing up to the struggles of learning

Viking Athletes Face Challenge Of Competition From Gridiron to Track

Viking athletes boldly faced the challenges presented by the 1970-1 season . . . practice started early for Princeton football players readying themselves to confront the challenge of the gridiron — fighting dejection after the loss of the first game, defying the opposition to score against them, struggling with a fierce desire to win . . . Beginning a new tradition, the Viking basketball team faced countless challenges presented on the courts — jumping to get the ball, scrambling to make a field goal, winning the GMC championship . . . Swimmers and tracksters raced against time in the challenge of the clock . . . the mighty Viking wrestlers strained their muscles in a noble effort to meet the challenge of strength . . . Gymnasts, defying gravity, gracefully faced the challenge of skill . . . Cross country runners, baseball players, and other Princeton athletes, striving to win, eagerly and unre-lently mastered the challenge of competition.

Clubs, Organizations Seek Relevancy, Involvement

Merger with Lincoln Heights gave an impetus for change in various clubs . . . made them more relevant . . . fostered greater student involvement to meet the challenge of the school year. Established Princeton organizations — Student Council, Tri-Hi-Y, Vikettes, yearbook, newspaper, Key Club, music groups — provided service to both the student body and community. New organizations, based on experiences of older ones, helped to meet the challenges of the 1970-1 year. Ecology Club fought pollution; J.C.W.A. attempted to increase world understanding; Interracial Club improved relations among Princetonians; and the Library Club emphasized the development of the individual.

COLUMBUS — Initial steps will be taken here Monday to force neighboring school districts to absorb Lincoln Heights' 1823 elementary and high school students. The State Board of Education will vote Monday on a recommendation from Superintendent of Instruction Dr. Martin Essex to revoke the school's state charter. Charter revocation from the state qualifies the district from state financial assistance, not necessarily meaning the two schools will be closed, Essex said Friday.

The state board's action, according to Essex, would in effect force 'starving-stricken' Lincoln Heights to consolidate with other districts.

Merger Here M

by Jeff Cover

Many eyes will be watching as the merger between a predominantly white school district and a totally black school district occurs for the first time in the United States. Actually the merger of Princeton and Lincoln Heights districts began in February, 1970, when the administrations of both districts started formal discussions following action by the Ohio State Board of Education. Discussions continued throughout the second school semester, and the foundations for the merger were laid during the late spring months.

SPEAKING to counselors and teachers from grades 7 to 9, C Orlando Taylor, New York, educator, stresses importance sensitivity in verbal and written communication.

Schools Meet Challenge Of Unification In Merger

1970-1 brought the merging of two separate school districts into one ... the challenge of unification hung heavy in the air ... In spring 1970, formal arrangements began to ready the schools for merging ... August brought direct steps involving human aspects of combining the two districts as human relation workshops were held August 17-28 — for administrators, faculty, bus drivers, custodians, and secretaries. In September and October, three-day sessions at Camp Kern involved all Princeton fifth-graders and selected seniors and juniors, as counselors, in an outdoor science program and an experiment in living together ... A human

Committee was formed to improve school-community relations on the merger. Since then, the committee has been busy attempting to keep communications open.

Several members of the committee, in which all areas of the Princeton City School District are represented, attended the Institute on Community Participation in School Affairs held in Columbus this summer. They, in turn, proposed a master plan that dealt with these relations at Princeton. Many ideas from this plan were accepted.

Improving Communications

Meanwhile, Lincoln Heights administrators headed by Mr. Edward Starr, and Princeton High School administrators headed by Dr. Donald Johnson, were involved in improving communications among themselves and teachers in both districts.

Dr. Johnson of Princeton stated that, "We have been really fortunate that everyone concerned has done everything possible to cooperate. It is hoped that this effort will result in a smooth merger."

Dr. Johnson also feels that Princeton will give everyone involved a high quality education with more opportunities while students formerly of Lincoln Heights will enrich the cultural background and awareness of the Princetonians which they now join.

Human Relations Workshop

Various human relations workshops have been held this summer for counselors, bus drivers, administrators, Board of Education members, department of co-ordinators, and personnel (teachers, secretaries, etc.) dealing particularly with grades 7-9 in the district.

These workshops were designed to develop black-white communications and understanding. Usually a main speaker or consultant gave a lecture, after which either large groups divided into smaller groups for discussion, or question and answer periods, were held.

Chuck Leach, president of Student Council, had this to say about the forthcoming school year —

Welcome

"I'd like to welcome all of you back from what I am sure was a very enjoyable summer. I hope all of you return, ready to make this a big year for Princeton. We have all the potential."

"It's up to each of us to make this a successful year. Student Council is planning big changes to maintain its position of representing and leading the Student Body. In the fall, each class will add five more representatives-at-large to Student Council. We will hold meetings during the day so we can meet more effectively with better attendance."

"We are continuing our efforts to make Student Council more effective and to make Student Council better serve you. Our major concern will be the merger, though. We are determined to make it work and we will be doing our utmost to make it successful. This year, we will be building the future of Princeton. Let's build it together to make our school a model of spirit, unity, and success."

nceton to Absorb Heights Schools

COLUMBUS: The decision has been made. Princeton School District, which already has 8000 pupils, will absorb the Lincoln Heights School District.

Martin W. Essex, state superintendent of public instruction, will recommend to the State Board of Education Monday that Lincoln Heights students be transferred to Princeton as of July 1.

"If all goes well this will be a veritable miracle for the Lincoln Heights District children," Essex says.

He will recommend:

- Transfer of the 1800 Lincoln Heights students to Princeton.
- Transfer of $33.7 million in General property from the Lockland District to Princeton for tax purposes.
- Shifting of 14 acres valued at $1.5 million in the Wyoming School District to Lincoln Heights municipal government.

relations advisory board was organized at the high school in the fall to aid in solving some of the problems created in merging the two districts and an interracial club was formed to create an awareness of each other's attitudes toward issues and to form an open line of communication between the races. A series of workshops focusing on the newly planned Intermediate School were held in February, 1971. The challenges created by merging the two school districts were many — the challenge of cooperation, the challenge of brotherhood, the challenge of unification — but the 1970-1 school year brought a successful beginning to the meeting of these challenges.

Local Scene Reflects Life's Challenge In Sports, Politics

In the year of the "Big Red Machine" and the new Riverfront Stadium, Cincinnati hosted All-Star Game — with Reds' Johnny Bench and Tony Perez starting and Pete Rose scoring winning run for National League. Women's Liberation marched on in Cincinnati while the Ohio State Fair Swung into action in Columbus with top-name guests. Big Red Machine captured National League Division title — went on challenging Baltimore in World Series — final result . . . defeat; but Johnny Bench, catcher, voted Most Valuable in National League. Delta Queen was saved — will run another three years. Elections: Governor — John Gilligan;

Senator — Robert Taft. Cincinnati's young Bengals won Central Division title — defeated by notorious Baltimore Colts in American League playoffs for the Super Bowl. Coney Island will see a new home in Warren County. Ohio and Cincinnati reflected the challenge of sports, opinions, beliefs and politics during 1970-1971.

Nation Meets Many Problems, Leaves Some in Dispute As Life Goes on in 1970-1971

The United States faced many challenges in 1970-1 . . . Campus unrest challenged students and educators . . . The Women's Liberation Movement bloomed as it swept the nation . . . Janis Joplin and Jimi Hendrix, cultural heroes of American youth, fatally overdosed themselves, making yet another cloud over Aquarian visions . . . Nation's overriding cause, ecology — a challenge of survival — gathered strength and importance to U.S. citizens . . . Elections thrust new faces in American politics . . . The fear of the draft incensed rebellion in American youth . . . Some problems successfully met, others still in dispute, the challenge of life of a nation went on.

Fight for Existence — Amid Promise of Progress — Challenges World's People Entering a New Decade

The beginning of a new decade challenged all people of the world . . . as the death of Charles de Gaulle ended an era of the past, the era of great wartime leaders . . . A challenge to peace came to Egypt with the death of Nasser . . . September brought Palestinian guerrillas, who hijacked three planes, landing them on the Jordanian desert . . . Allende became Latin America's first democratically elected Marxist president . . . Pakistani cyclone survivors battled against starvation and death . . . Japan's Expo '70 held a promise of progress . . . The fight for mere existence challenged the people of the world — challenge of peace, love and brotherhood.

Vikings Face Challenges — from Humorous

to Conventional — in STUDENT LIFE

Crowds at football games, "heroes" displayed publicly on the "See-Through-Up-Draft-Memorial-Bridge" and senior homeroom activities reflect the lighter aspects of student life amid the conventional day. Vikings face, in everyday student life, varied challenges of the year beginning with Opening Day of school, 20-1 . . . Camp Kern, 22-3 . . . Homecoming, 24-5 . . . Open Houses, 26-7 . . . Lilies of the Field, 28-29 . . . Summertree, 30-31 . . . Conferences, 32-3 . . . Christmas, 34-5 . . . Foreign Exchange, 36-7 . . . Friends Meet On September 8 As School Starts Anew

The buses arrive; students pile off; halls are crowded with friends seeing friends ... screaming ... laughing ... gossiping ... it's September 8 and school has begun again. Rusty, forgotten bells ring ... homeroom is in session. Warm welcomes and words of good luck come from deans, counselors, and class officers. Moans and groans at the first glance of schedules ... meeting teachers ... listening to their opening speeches on course description and their own personal grading system ... transferring out ... returning homeroom forms to fill out — mean that the half day is over ... the rest of the challenging year stands ahead for some 2950 Princetonians.

Princeton Students Help With Study of Nature, Lessons in Brotherhood

Princeton students chosen to serve as counselors at Camp Kern in Fall met at school and loaded buses for the ride to camp . . . With assignment to cabins, each cabin became a family, with Viking students acting the parts of parents, helping their kids through the day . . . Evening finally came, and counselors put their children to bed with much giggling and many ghost stories . . . The hike to Fort Ancient was long and tiring — helping each other up steep slopes, bandaging injuries. . . . Activities — fishing, canoeing, archery, nature study . . . sleep . . . the sad good-byes — meant a successful meeting in the challenge of brotherhood.

Space Odyssey — 2001 Climaxes Homecoming

Homecoming festivities started Thursday night, October 1, with the senior skit and bonfire. A chilly, Friday night pep rally led to a challenging game and halftime introduction of the court before Vikings conquered Garfield 35-0. Climax of the week-end came with 2001 — A Space Odyssey dance theme, amid multi-colored lights and solar system, as the Blue Stone Ivory provided music creating the perfect romantic

Open Houses Introduce Parents To Teachers

Back to school night challenged parents to meet sons'/daughters' teachers October 22 at the Annex, October 26 at the Central Campus. Parents lost in night-lighted halls . . . walking in late to class . . . not going to class at all . . . teachers explaining methods . . . describing courses . . . getting to know parents better . . . asking and answering hundreds of questions . . . setting up parent-teacher conferences . . . parents learning more of the scholastic challenges faced everyday . . . trying to do more about it day by day — all were part of open houses as the challenge of tomorrow marched on amid the treadmill of today.

'Lilies of the Field' Leads First Repertory Theater Presented by High Schools Of the Nation

The weekend of November 19-22 marked the first repertory theater — not only at Princeton, but the first high school in the United States . . . Directed by Mr. Boyd, Lilies of the Field headed the weekend by opening Thursday night . . . Summertime followed on Friday, with a second performance of Lilies on Saturday evening . . . The Viking crews worked hard to make the set an accurate portrayal of a remote valley in the American Southwest . . . The story was that of an adventurous handyman named Homer Smith and the hard-working German nuns who had fled religious persecution and had come to seek equality in America . . . A few chores done by Homer received no pay, just food . . . The challenge of building a chapel was put to Homer by mother superior, Mother Maria Marthe . . . After much persuasian, he agreed to build . . . He began, then left because of lack of materials . . . After some time passed, Homer decided to return to "his" chapel. Villagers donated materials and helped complete the building. When the chapel was completed, Homer left, but he had successfully faced his challenge . . . The Legend of Homer Smith lived on.

Conferences Satisfy Varied Interests Of Students

Princeton conferences involved people in different groups . . . satisfying varying interests. October Health Careers Day let students explore possible professions in health-related areas. The "Peace and Freedom" workshop honored Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church in January. Attending the Edgecliffe College Mock United Nations, five Princeton students represented Iraq and Cambodia. The Journalism Department won a national award . . . for its National Newspaper Week Program, including appearances of Bob Jones and Chuck Hubbs from local news media, in a program conducted cooperatively with senior Social Science teachers. A Student Council workshop for the G.M.C. was held at Princeton during the middle of the school year. A Regional Thespian Conference was held in fall for students from four states. All gave Princeton a busy year for challenging conferences, 1970-71.

Excitement Spreads As Princeton Groups Meet Challenge of Brotherhood During Christmas Season

1970 Christmas Season . . . spirit and excitement spread contagiously throughout Princeton, infecting students and faculty alike . . . Planning activities for the season, the Viking Music Department held its annual Christmas tree sale, Dec. 11-13, as band and chorus members braved crisp air selling trees in the school parking lot. The Christmas concerts, Dec. 6 & 22, harmoniously spread a feeling of good will through the various musical arrangements and carols. The Faculty Christmas Tea, Dec. 16, served and decorated by Central Office people, the faculty Christmas party by Cadet Librarians at the Annex . . . all displays and decoration conveying the meaning of Christmas, in the past and today, its customs, religious and social significance . . . portraying Christmas, its challenge — that of love and brotherhood among people of all races, creeds, colors.

Exchanges Link U.S. Culture With Ways Of Other Lands

Links with Europe and Asia were more firmly bonded by the experiences of one PHS teacher and three students during the 1970-1971 school year.

... Mr. Ziegler, a Russian teacher, traveled to Russia and spent ten weeks from October to December teaching English to Russian students from grades 1-10 ... Lena Perhag, a senior from Jonkoping, Sweden, spent the year as a foreign exchange student at PHS. Lena participated in many activities at Princeton and learned much about American culture in addition to teaching Viking students about Swedish culture ... Till Wendt, a student from Germany, spent one semester at PHS before going home to finish out the year ... Nancy Slusher, a Viking junior, attended school in Denmark for her first semester. In January, she returned to Princeton to share her experiences with other students ... the challenge of merging cultures.

Black History Week Encourages Reflection Upon Brotherhodd At Princeton, Within the World

The Observation of Black History and Brotherhood Week, February 8-12, encouraged Viking students to seriously consider and sensitively reflect about brotherhood in Princeton and in the world. Black students diligently prepared displays and bulletin boards about historical black figures and about the black man's continuing search for identity and freedom in America . . . Some in-school activities consisted of a video tape discussion by Mr. Townsel, senior class dean; excerpts from the CBS-TV series narrated by Bill Cosby on the history and culture of the black man; and lectures by Mr. Garrett, social studies teacher, on his experiences in Africa . . . A heavy snowfall caused cancellation of two events — a black history/art display and a lecture by Maynard H. Jackson Vice-Mayor of Atlanta, Georgia.

Moon on a Chain Solves Problem For Ill Princess In Thurber's Play

Princeton presented James Thurber's children's play, Many Moons, on February 10 and 11 to elementary school children and adults alike. The play, under the direction of Mr. Boyd, opened with the Royal Nurse conveying that the Princess was ill. The Wisemen and their wives got together and tried to figure out why the Princess was ill and what could make her better. They tried everything from raspberry tarts to the Horns of Dilemma, but, nothing seemed to work. Finally, they asked the Princess Lenore what she wanted, and she told them, — the moon on a chain around her neck. The Wisemen did not know how to get the moon for the Princess; but the Jester knew, and he had the Goldsmith make a gold moon. The Princess was well again, and the challenge of her wants were met.

Academic Fair, Arts Festival Reveal Talents Of Students

Talents and abilities were unfurled . . . months of industrious work to amass examples of how successfully Princeton has used its material resources found expression for families and friends at the Academic Fair held November 1 and the Festival of Arts held on March 7. Displays and exhibits in English and dramatics, and in all academic subjects . . . exhibits on the community schools — furniture re-finishing, antique collecting, and photography — revealed the various talents of students and adults . . . An array of paintings and sculptures brightened halls and classrooms . . . performances of band and choral groups were held in Matthews Auditorium . . . PHS Band Boosters served ham and chicken dinners . . . All reflected proof of the successful meeting of the challenge of nurturing talents and providing education.

Generous Vikings Donate $3,698 — Greatest Total For Spirit Week

Generous Vikings collected a grand total of $3,698.28 during Spirit Week — approximately $1,500 more than last year. The prosperous week began March 15 with extended homeroom for all grades to begin their collection of money. Tuesday was designated 1950's Day, on which students dressed in the appropriate attire and attended the concert given by the 1950's Grease Band. On Wednesday, an auction was held in the cafeteria with seniors against juniors and sophmores against freshmen; it also turned out to be St. Patrick's Day. Thursday was shorts and sandals day, and Friday was hat day, on which tags were sold to raise more money. At last, the week was over; and as the money poured in, results were announced early following week with the seniors winning by a class average of $2.05 . . . the juniors came next, followed by the frosh and then the sophs. A generous challenge met by all Princetonians made this year's Spirit Week the most profitable yet for the Princeton School District Scholarship Fund.

Tragedy Strikes But Cast Of 'Carousel' Presents Top Performance

Princeton's Dramatic Department presented Carousel on May 6-9 . . . Try-outs were held March 15-19; a cast of 60 was selected by Mr. McClung; work began . . . Actors raced against time to master the play — learning lines, blocking dances and songs . . . Crews worked diligently to create a professional quality set . . . But tragedy struck — one actor, Mark Culpin, was killed in an auto accident; another, Bruce Guthrie, was seriously injured . . . Still, the show had to go on . . . and standing ova-tions were received every night as the story was revealed . . . Set in New England in 1870-80's, Carousel told the story of Billy Bigelow and his wife, Julie. It presented Billy, and his struggles with life, while his choice to follow his friend, Jigger, led to his death. His ascent into heaven let Billy realize that he had left many things undone on earth. He was allowed to revisit the earth, and there he completed his unfinished tasks . . . as another year of challenges in dramatics ended.

'Love Story' Greets Dancers With Flowers, Slides, Park Scene

Six-foot-tall flowers illustrating the theme "Love Story" set the stage for the 12th and last Princeton Junior-Senior Prom, which was held at Hartwell Country Club on May 14, 1971. Couples entering the romantic atmosphere viewed a park scene and slides, which set the mood for the whole evening. The music, provided by the Motown Masters and the Howard Chapman Orchestra, added to the atmosphere and provided a contrast in dancing. At the stroke of midnight, the court was introduced and the Kings and Queens were crowned. The dance was over, but, still the night went on — with after-prom parties to go to with friends, having fun and enjoying what was the first high school prom for some and the last for many others. The weekend went on with many people going on picnics or traveling to fun-filled Coney Island trying to make the weekend last as long as they could. But the three days finally ended, while memories of the weekend lingered as one more month of school remained.

Excitement Increases As Royalty Is Announced

Love Story, 1971 . . . The stroke of midnight brought the coronation of the Prom Kings and Queens. The floor was cleared of dancers, and an air of tense excitement began to build. Robert Akers, the commentator for the evening, announced the entire Prom Court, and two by two they glided to the Love Story set . . . Susan Jones and Bob Brockman . . . Leslie Williams and Bennie Middlebrook . . . Mary Meyer and Rex Krieder . . . Patsy Strayhorn and Larry Abrams . . . Barb Henderson and Tom Hoekzema . . . Lois Leonard and Ben Toran. The crown bearers followed behind the final couple. Then, came the announcement of the Kings and Queens, followed by the crowning. Curtis Smith, the Annex Senior Class President, crowned Queen Barb Henderson and King Bob Brockman, from the Central Campus, while Chuck Leach, Student Council president, crowned Queen Lois Leonard and King Ben Toran, from the Annex. Concluding the evening according to the prom theme, Love Story, came the traditional coronation dance. The night, filled with happiness and joy, became an evening to remember for all involved.

Award Banquets Close Out Year of Honor For Vikings

At the close of the 1970-1 school year, Princeton students were honored with a variety of award banquets and programs. Paving the way, the 8th Annual Theatre Awards Night was held on May 27. Twenty Thespians were inducted, and awards for outstanding performance were presented . . . The Academic Banquet followed on June 1, honoring 108 PHS students for high achievement on the academic level. On June 4, the final Athletic Awards Picnic was held for the '70-1 season, paying tribute to the many records and achievements Princeton athletes had attained throughout the year . . . The 9th Annual Journalism Banquet took place June 7 at David's Buffet, giving recognition to staff members of The Student Prince and Odin's Word, and granting membership to 16 students in the PHS chapter of Quill and Scroll. A final awards assembly, in senior homeroom on June 8, honored seniors who received scholarships, grants, and other forms of recognition for service and achievement throughout their years in high school.

Baccalaureate At Landmark Begins Step To Graduation

Beginning the momentous step for PHS's graduating seniors was the Baccalaureate service held in Landmark Baptist Temple on Sunday, June 13, at 2:30 p.m. . . . Rehearsal had been on June 11 after seniors received their robes . . . Students lined up outside the temple, and the processional to "Festival March" began the ceremony. The Invocation was given by Mr. Donald Wothe, the twelfth-grade counselor.

The choir responded with "A Blessing" followed by several other selections. Dr. Donald Johnson welcomed the students and guests, followed by the Rev. Harvey Hahn, who urged the students to leave their "fingerprint" on the face of the earth. The choir again sang, and the Benediction was spoken by Rev. Samuel Krieder. Then after a final response by the choir, seniors departed to Verdi's "Triumphal March."

Graduation Ceremony On Football Field Ends High School Careers For 590 Seniors

High school careers of 590 PHS students ended in an impressive ceremony held at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, June 14. As Princeton's Concert Band played "Pomp and Circumstance", the graduates marched the length of the football field to their seats. A brief Invocation was spoken by Rev. Charles Trout, followed by the welcoming address by Dr. Robert E. Lucas, who praised the class for its maturity. The class welcome was presented by Annette Hardy, followed by brief remarks by Mr. James Cook and Mrs. Elaine Brockmeier. Speaking on "The Education of Man", the 1971 Class Orator, Billi Jean Johnson, concluded that "becoming is superior to being." Then, the class of 1971 was presented by Dr. Donald Johnson. Male graduates, robed in red, and the female graduates, in white, received their diplomas and congratulations from Mr. Troy

DeBord. Seniors sang the PHS Alma Mater for a final time, and Rev. Jack Zellars delivered the Benediction. The band concluded the ceremony with the recessional "Grand March" from Aida, as the graduates marched from the field.

Students Find Challenge as Comprehensive Curriculum

Adds Wide Variety to ACADEMIC LIFE

Reflections of Marching Band practicing for Friday night's half-time show, busy fingers racing over typewriter keys to finish an in-class assignment, and a young student pondering a thought as he listens to tapes in the reading lab reflect the studious aspects of academic life. Students Prepare By Applied Arts For Useful Life In Outside World

Meeting challenges of the American world, 720 students in 49 different sections of Applied Arts classes functioned at school. With automatic presses clicking and the bitter odor of chemicals intermingling with that of fresh ink, students produced school printing. From flying sparks of melted metal . . .

to flying sawdust of woodsaws, students learned to work materials. While the steady cadences of a functioning automobile engine throbbed rhythmically, students did automotive work. Electric current from a battery led to better television pictures as students solved riddles of electronics. Precision at architectural drawing led to building concepts, as Applied Arts students prepared themselves for a useful life after high school in an increasingly complex society while America entered the 1970's.

Home Economics Offers Wide Choice In Courses

The sweet smell of bacon, the uneven rattling of sewing machines being used by girls for the first time — these and many other intriguing sounds came from home economics classrooms this year when some 536 students enrolled in 34 classes involving 10 different courses. Girls found that they had a wide selection from which to choose — from basic Home Economics I to advanced courses in which they pursued their specialized field of interest such as foreign cooking, dress designing, or cooperative food service — by which students at the Annex received professional training in preparation of food for restaurants and institutions. The food service program is a program being discovered by more students each year. Through it, students learned to use kitchen equipment in cooking and also had a chance to work in cafeterias as a learning experience. So try they did — amid personal success or failure, students moved to exciting challenges!

New Course In Commercial Art Opens Job Chances For Graduates

The commercial art course, new this fall, will place students in art positions . . . fashion illustration, tv art, advertising, cartooning, greeting cards, newspaper art and many others before graduation. Many of the class activities provided challenges — creating station-break cards for Channel 19, WXIX-TV. Many guest lecturers had pointers for jobs of commercial artists — such as Mr. Robert Ertel, Proctor and Gamble; Mr. Glaser, art director for Channel 19; and Mrs. Sheila Bonser, well-known collage artist and graphic artist. With more variety of art work in 1970-1971, the freshmen art class had more fields of art to work on than ever. However, the staff hoped to revise the whole art program and write a new curriculum for 1971-1972, opening new experiences for underclassmen among the 331 art students this year.

More Than 1100 Students Find Satisfaction By Learning Skills In Business Education

Satisfaction has been found by 1172 students in one of the 49 classes of business education. Some students — seniors in any of five cooperative education programs — liked early dismissal for on-the-job training in trades or in sales-related work. Others found satisfaction in he clicking of typewriter keys. Some liked the scribbling of shorthand, while others found a challenge in endless hours of shorthand dictation. Many students found it a great challenge to accept responsibility in bookkeeping and data processing while students in

Introduction to Business enjoyed the ringing sound of a cash register. Newest features in cooperative office education were plaid skirts and black vests worn by the COE students.

Science Students Undertake Individual Discovery, In-Depth Study

Individual discovery of scientific principles challenged efforts by 1844 students in 79 sections of eight different science courses including General Science, Earth Science, Biology, Physics, Science Seminar, Chemistry II, and Biology II this year. New in 1970-71, Chemistry II and Biology II offered students a chance to study in greater depth topics of particular interest to them. Biology II opened areas such as field ecology and microbiology, while Chemistry II provided in-depth study in organic chemistry and practical chemistry, by which students analyzed content of household and industrial products. Reflecting accomplishments in science, sophomore Luke Walker won honor in spring with his project sponsored by Mr. Robert Burns entitled "Inducing Vital Interference in Escherichia Coli", as this project won superior awards at Miami University, Oxford, and took state and national awards from the American Society for Microbiology.

Mr. Rees (opposite page) fascinates his third-period chemistry class by filtering solutions and working with precipitates. Astonished by his demonstration (carry-across picture), Mr. Mosteller's third-period physics class watches anxiously for the result. Mr. Zellar's earth science class admires his collection of colorful rocks. Mrs. Person explains the parts of plants to two of her involved students. The entire class is gathered around the lab table as Mr. Marshall conducts an experiment in chemistry.

Math Challenges Students With Abstract Thinking And Direct Application To Every-Day Life

Rulers, protractors, and compasses all were tools used in meeting challenges of abstract thinking by 2020 students in 82 sections of math. New this year was the change in course content by which Foundations Math I and II provided a two-year sequence in algebra and Foundations Math III offered geometry, as all three courses stressed practical applications to life. Experimentation with use of tapes in Mr. Lively's class, with individual instruction in Mr. Hughes' class, and relation of math to computer operation in Mr. Dean's class reflected concern of the Mathematics Department in making content meaningful to students. Participating in math workshop here March 17-19 Dr. John LeBlanc, Indiana U., the Princeton District Mathematics Coordinator Mr. Charles Lambert and teachers are developing a new sequence of courses for grades 7-9 and a computational skills laboratory for out-of-class math work to help Princeton students use math effectively.

Guests Speak In Health, Driver Ed.

1970-1971 brought guest speakers to seniors and frosh in health class and to sophs in driver education. Most significant efforts on current problems were discussions by health teachers and Sgt. Mallon on drug abuse dangers. Important, too, for sophomore driver education students was a special assembly for the class in Matthews Auditorium by Jack Burnett, a young man paralyzed from the neck down from an automobile accident . . . as a lesson for these students who would soon be driving upon completion of the course.

Safety first (opposite page) is Mr. Ellis' message to driver education students at the Annex. Record player is one of the audio means used by Mr. Sroufe in teaching driver education and health. Meditative mood by Mr. Lammi greets students as they complete test in health. Blackboard gives Mr. Tackett plenty of room to explain safety rules and regulations in driver education. Wheelchair (carry-across picture) provides a startling platform from which quadriplegic Jack Burnett discusses the dangers of drag racing to driver education students during combined class in Matthews Auditorium.

Phys. Ed. Provides Variety In Sports

Adjusted courses by grade level were offered in physical education for boys and girls. Different activities provided a variety of sports during the school year. Boys had many activities including swimming, endurance exercises, isometric, drills, weight lifting, and football, while the girls had field hockey, volleyball, tumbling, modern dance, and badminton. In 1970-71, the school purchased new equipment for the boys. A new cageball, universal weight machine, and wrestling mats were obtained for physical education. New techniques were used in this past year, as the boys ran obstacle courses in the spring, and boys and girls had new cageball activities. Physical Education Department offered a program by which both boys and girls participated together in volleyball and swimming as part of class exercises.

Through New Tapes, Films
As Learning Center
Expands Varied Services

The Learning Center has expanded greatly throughout the entire year. The use of tapes and micro film has become a big attraction. A new look into independent study projects included effective study, learning by association, and the use of slide rules. The use of records, filmstrips, and tape recorders offered a complete collection of educational services so that varied interests of the students could be satisfied with the opportunities available through the Learning Center.

Innovative English Program
Meets Challenge
For Students
In Changing World

The junior-senior English program met the challenges of a changing world with 40 courses on a quarter plan — reportedly, the first in the nation — complementing 9th and 10th grade standard courses. Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Williams presented this plan before National Council of Teachers of English at Atlanta, Ga., in November. Meanwhile, Journalism manifested itself in National Newspaper Week . . . and speech/debate classes prepared students for more than 25 contests throughout Ohio in 1970-1971 during invitational competition.

Students Learn Skills, Provide Entertainment in Music

Princeton's Music Department instructed 777 students in skills and knowledge of music, while adding three new groups — Chamber Orchestra, Vocal Chamber Ensemble, and Stage Band — and providing the high school and local communities with entertainment ranging from half-time shows at all Viking football games with the 140-member Marching Band led by strutting drum majors and majorettes; the Sharonville Community Thanksgiving Eve Service and Christmas Messiah concert by the A Cappella Choir; the Academic Fair and Festival of Arts programs by more than ten music groups at each event; the winter concert by the concert and Viking Bands, at which time Mr. Reynolds received a pin for ten years of service; the late spring orchestra concert, at which Ronald Aaron, violist for the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, performed as a guest soloist; the spring choral concert; cooperative effort by orchestra members with the Drama Department in the production of Carousel; Band appearance at Springdale on Memorial Day and at Miami on Alumni Day.

Language Study
Shrinks World Culture
As Students Listen
To Foreign Voices

During the year 1970, communication beyond our culture shrank the world for 928 foreign language students in 41 classes. They listened intently as foreign voices were transmitted through the uncomfortable but worthwhile earphones, while pupils strived to acquire a knowledge of German, Spanish, Russian, French, and Latin. Princeton's eight language teachers endeavored to teach these fields. To provide a thorough education in foreign language four skills were taught at the same time: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. In order to bring the student close to his language interest, language labs were provided for modern languages. In the future, Princeton's language department plans to present courses just in speaking, and to employ diversified methods and media of instruction.

Visual aids (carry-across picture) are often used by Mrs. Bell in her German classes to explain vocabulary words. Mr. Ziegler makes use of the foreign language lab while he discusses his trip to Russia in fall as an exchange teacher. Tapes on audio-lingual approach help Russian I students learn this difficult language. Going over latest lessons (above) requires attention and concentration in Mrs. Naegel's Spanish II class. French III students try to remember during Mrs. Munson's quiz.

Changes Mark Social Science Study
As Juniors Use
Thematic Study in History,
Weekly Debates on Current Events

Distinct changes took place in the Social Science Department this year as teachers followed two different methods of teaching American History. Mr. Maurice A. Godsey and Mr. Francis G. Byrnes used the experimental thematic approach, by which they chose certain topics — or themes — such as Labor, Agriculture, Negro History and Geography for in-depth study throughout three or four weeks. They used American Educational Pamphlets, many films, movies and guest speakers to stimulate class discussions. Mr. Charles Kirkwood, Mr. Jerome Jaspers and Mr. Paul Scarborough used the standard chronological method, beginning with the American Revolution and ending with 1971. However, stressing class participation, they held weekly classroom debates on current topics. American Government classes spent much time studying local government, collecting materials, such as community charters, and meeting with mayors of the communities within the district and with state and national legislators.

Viking '11' Combines Talent, Overcomes Opening Loss To Wrap Up Fourth Straight GMC Title

Combining talent from past Viking and Tiger Championship teams, the 1970 varsity squad opened the season against traditional foe Moeller before a crowd of more than 8,000 here — third largest football crowd in Greater Cincinnati this year — but the Vikings bowed 14-6 in a tough defensive battle. They snapped back the following week by trouncing neighboring Greenhills 48-7 and then travelled 100 miles for defeat by Upper Arlington 13-7.

But the team regrouped and began its road to a fourth consecutive GMC title with a 35-0 Homecoming victory over Garfield . . . a 20-18 ambush over Taft and 22-6 battle over Fairfield. Sandwiched between GMC victories was the 12-6 loss dealt to Badin, the Rams' second defeat in five years. Vikings wrapped up the GMC, shutting out Middletown 34-0 before losing to Woodward 34-10 and swamping the Colerain Cardinals 43-12.

After losing the first three games, the reserve squad won five in a row, including four shutouts, for a record of 5-3. The Vikings were 3-1 in GMC competition with wins over Taft, 16-0 . . . Fairfield, 22-0 . . . Middletown, 22-14. Their only loss in the league was to Garfield with a tight score of 14-16. Steve Borden, leading rusher and scorer of the Freshmen Grey squad, pushed his team to an over-all record of 3-2. Hard-fought victories came over Badin, 16-0 . . . Roosevelt, 30-6 . . . Middletown, 20-14. The two losses were close scores against Roger Bacon, 6-15, and Middletown, 28-30. The Freshmen Scarlet team had a season of 3-1-1, but were defeated by the Grey team in a late-season game by a score of 0-44. Said to be "the hardest hitting team of freshmen" by Coach Hughes, the team proved so by losing to Middletown by a mere 2 points. A 12-12 tie between the same two teams came earlier in the season. Wins came against McNicholas, 14-6 . . . Fairfield, 32-16 and Harding, 30-20. Training and determination prepared reserve and frosh for challenges of the Varsity.

Cross Country Sweeps Second Spot In GMC

Perspiration, calloused feet and soiled sweatsuits were evidence of the cross country team's diligence as sprinters averaged 450 miles this year through rain or snow in practice and in 7 meets. Vikings who motivated their team to triumph were Most Valuable — Bob Jack and Most Improved — Dave Stanton. Faced with these challenges, Viking Harriers overcame obstacles and took 2nd in the GMC.

Winter Sports Find Girls Struggling For 1st, 2nd

Floorburns, black eyes and "stoved" fingers were byproducts of arduous struggle as girls' volleyball and basketball teams took 1st and 2nd in the GMC, respectively. The varsity volleyball team, consisting of 15 select players, choose as their Most Valuable Player — Janice Lake-man. The varsity basketball team had their own outstanding players; sophomore Velma Lehman averaged 20 points a game, while Carol Smith was voted Outstanding Defensive Player as challenge was met.

Cheering Squads Find Happiness In Victory, Tears in Defeat

Boisterous cheering crowds, spirit and victory were part of the Viking cheerleaders' challenge of 1970-71. All were met and accomplished as spirits soared to a new high when football and basketball crowds were the greatest in history. Ingenious cheers and colorful, new uniforms aided the vivacious squad cheer their way through the masses of victories and few defeats. The addition of boy cheerleaders verified the fact that spirit existed in everyone. With being a cheerleader came the torrid summer practice sessions after school three times a week, and setting a "good" example for other schools. Yet with these numerous requirements, all the cheerleaders found time for other services to their school and community. Services ranged from participation in school to being an owner and teacher of a school of ballet. With these challenges came the happiness, fun and glamour of a cheerleader, and with the joy came the anguish and tears of defeat to make the challenge even more stimulating.

Vikings Post 17-4 Record; Win GMC, Sectional Crown In Basketball

This year's varsity basketball team under new head coach John Hillard had the most impressive record that Princeton has seen in a decade as the squad posted an over-all 17-4 mark. Many conditions contributed to the success as the team combined six let-termen from the Lincoln Heights 1969-1970 "A" state championship team, and the five-man core of Princeton's 69-'70 squad returned with the intention of winning. Vikings were a threat from the start; and to prove their newly founded supremacy, they became the GMC champions and sectional champs. Most valuable player Mike Plunkett scored the 1000th point of his basketball career as the Vikings "smashed" Finneytown 69-62 in the sectional tourney. In the Southwestern Ohio district game against Middletown, a record-breaking 10,000 crowd was on hand to watch the Vikings lose by a whisker. Three players found spots on the 10-player GMC first team — Wendy Holloway, Mike Plunkett, and Ben Toran. Dave Brown and Greg Sewell received honorable mention. Mike Plunkett and Wendy Holloway played in the Midwest All-American game in Dayton at the end of the season, and Plunkett placed first on the Post and Enquirer All-Star squad to round out honors locally.

Reserves Net 14-4 Record; Others Tally Mixed Seasons

Trying to overcome the newness of a merger, the reserve, sophomore and two freshmen basketball teams came up with mixed seasons. The reserve basketball team opened their season with victories over Lockland (63-45) and Sycamore (51-35). Suffering a close loss to GMC rival Hamilton Taft, they rebounded with victories over Colerain (46-44) and Badin (56-47). However, another GMC loss came against Garfield (49-54) to give them an over-all record of 14-4 with 4-4 in league competition. The sophomores' basketball team was 7-12 on the season and 3-5 in the league. The freshmen grey team, 1-2 in the GMC, came back with a season record of 8-6. The over-all record of the freshmen scarlet basketball team was 4-6 with a record of 0-4 in GMC competition.

Viking Gymnasts Vault to GMC, Fly High To 4th in State

Maltese cross on the still rings, Russian splits and precision added to the success of the varsity gymnastic team 1970-71. The gymnasts vaulted to the GMC Championship and to fourth in state competition. Alvin McClure, chosen as Most Valuable Gymnast, displayed his eminence when he placed 1st as Best All Around in the Regional Tournament and the GMC. Receiving the Most Improved award was "Rocky" Keith, who accomplished the skills of the side horse and the well-deserved title of 2nd in the state. Winner of the Superintendent's Award, Byron Belitsos was one of the team's "Top Ten Scorers". Earning 3rd in the state on the trampoline was co-captain Dan Carpenter. Co-captain Al McClure strengthened his "Top Scorer of 1970-71" title by winning 3rd in the state as Best All Around. The gymnastic team's ability to meet the challenge relied not only on a few but on many other gymnasts who placed in state — Norman Hoard — 2nd on still rings . . . Bill McConnell — 6th on trampoline. All these gymnasts aided in their defeat of the tribulations of challenge.

Varsity 'Fish' Splash to 5th Crown, Give Coach Renner His 100th Victory

Bloodshot eyes and stomach cramps were the products of hours of practice from 6:00 a.m. to late afternoon. However, the "Fish" proved that the effort was worthwhile, as they wrapped up their 5th consecutive GMC title and presented Coach Renner with his 100th win when they defeated Indian Hill 71-24. Various records were topped this year — Tim Poff, in 100 yd.

breaststroke . . . and the 400 yd. freestyle relay team of Matteoli, Leicher, Poff and Budd. Princeton's dual meets this year were successful with an 8-3 season only to be defeated by the formidable northern teams. Captain Dave Matteoli and Pat Fagin were selected on the Post and Times-Star All-City Swimming Team, as 14 lettering "Fish" graduated.

Varsity Wrestlers Pin 11-0 Record, Mat 'Firsts' In Six Invitationals

Fasting to keep their weight class, tough competition and building muscles were typical of Viking wrestling teams 1970-71. With a "best record ever" of 11 wins and 0 losses, the varsity squad scrambled to 1st in the GMC. The reserve wrestlers battled their way to a 3-2 record with losses to Elder and St. Xavier. Pinning their way to a season of 3-2, the freshmen had victories over Middletown (27-23), Deer Park (28-24), and Indian Hill (23-10). Success of the squad relied on Most Valuable Tom Chambers and Jerry Jones. First team All-City wrestlers were Larry Miller, Tom Chambers, and Jerry Jones. Honorable Mention All-City awards went to Rick Carter, Alfred Leslie and Fred Pfeiffer. These led the way for the reserve and freshmen wrestlers as they showed them how to meet challenge on the mats.

Girls Stroke To 2-3 Season, Meeting Challenge In Viking Pool

Shriveled skin, exhausting practices, and an "ice cream social" it isn't — girls' varsity swimming 1970-71. Starting the season with a loss to Oak Hills 47-62, the swimmers stroked back with a win over Norwood 59-44. Suffering two more defeats to Talawanda 42-71 and Oak Hills 48-64, girls finished their season with a "swim-away" 72-41 victory over Hamilton Taft for a record of 2-3. Backstroke, individual medley and butterfly — Robyn Carey's specialities — helped her to swim to title of Most Valuable Swimmer. Individual swimmers' accomplishments were awarded by points with Stephanie Latham being tops with 40 and Robyn Carey running a close second with 38. Swimmers placing in meets were Jan Bryant, Jan Stringer, Marcia Federle, Sandy Stringer, Kathy Biscardi, Cindy Hudak, Cathy Crawford, Marti Spellmire and Nancy Hunley — all added up to make a year of understanding and learning to meet a challenge.

Girl Gymnasts Start Competition, GAA Supports Sports Effort

Hours of practice and pulled muscles led up to the girls' gymnastic district meet, the only competition for Viking girls in their first regular season of gymnastics. Pam Ruckstuhl, Most Valuable, was the only one to place in this competition, which was composed of some of the toughest gymnastic teams in the state and was based on individual effort. Girls who Coach Garrett feels were most outstanding were Pam Ruckstuhl, in free floor exercise . . . Gayla Shellenberger, on the balance beam . . . Sandy Brown, uneven parallel bars . . . and Laurie Aiken on vaulting. This year's GAA was more active than ever before. Not only did they promote girls' sports, they also sold programs and candy in-order to buy the new GAA jackets and patches, and the new uniforms for the various teams. These girls proved what a feminine touch can do for the field of sports by their generosity through devoted time and effort.

Girls Bring Opposition to Knees On Viking Cinders, Softball Diamond

Princeton's girls' track team and softball squad had an extraordinary year with records established and various titanic opposition "brought to their knees". The softball team had only one less — to Fairfield — which gave them an impressive record of 5-1. Dorothy Baumgardner was chosen as the team's Most Valuable Player. The track team had a most successful season with a record of two 1st and two 2nd place honors, while in many of the meets they were competing against several of the city's "A-1" teams. During the dual meet with the Lakota "T-Birds", Carol Smith set a new school record in the standing long jump with 8'3"; and then a week later at the Princeton Invitational she broke her own record with 8'3¼"; as the Viking girls swept to second place behind winner Madeira.

Frosh Sophs Swim To Musical Notes of Love As June Water Show Reveals Mystic World

Synchronized stroking, gracefulness and precision were achieved by the toilsome hours of "wet" practice, as the 1970-71 Water Show got ready for their two-night performance. Fluorescent lights accented the romantic theme of "Love Story", as the "mermaids" performed their ballet legs, back dolphins and pinwheels under water. Consisting of mostly freshmen and sophomores, the "swimmers" added beauty to the mystic water world. Dignity was emphasized as the poetic fish swam to the musical notes of love on June 4 and 5.

Performing the "clam" in sequence (opposite page) are Diane Simonson, Yvonne Lester, and Ginny Harra.. Although Vicki Madden alone is seen by the audience, Robin Claunch and Tina Roy help create a six-arm dancer. Ballet leg sequence of two pictures shows Sharon Guckieam Jan Stringer, Monica Pence and Marcia Federle practicing their act for performance on June 4 and 5. Split-second timing (above) comes with practice as Daine Simonson, Debbie Hill, Yvonne Lester, Debbie Turner, and Gerianne Ptrouffke leap into the pool while Mrs. Lunz gives instructions. Porpoise-like act finds Terry Garner diving while Vicki Base-Smith stands on her head under water.

Vike 'Nine' Slams Ball For 37-8 Record, GMC Title

Calloused hands from gripping the bat and dirty "seats" from sliding into homeplate were aggravations well "put-up-with" as the varsity baseball team batted toward a "Best in the City" title. With opening victories over Roger Bacon, Moeller, and Withrow, Mark Audretch and Steve Gore teamed-up to pitch an 11-inning, 1-0 no-hitter over Reading. Victories over Harrison and Aiken were followed by another no-hitter against Aiken with Hoyles, Meier, Webster and Schmittou being responsible. Later in the season, Tim Hoyles pitched a no-hitter against Taft to give the Vikings a record of 37-8 and the GMC championship. The reserve baseball team were 18-7 on the season, and Most Valuable, Mark Reisenfeld, helped them to a 5-3 in the GMC. Sporting a season record of 10-6, the freshman squad picked up a 0-2 record in the GMC. However, they dealt a loss to the Viking reserve team. Varsity player Greg Sewell broke his last year's record of 101 times at bat and re-set it at 120. Also helping his team, Greg Sewell was winner of the Most Valuable Player award: Winners of the Superintendent's Award, Brian Rhodes and Ed Rinck, showed their ability. Most Improved, Carl Burgjohann proved that "practice makes perfect". Chopping numerous hits, Greg Sewell, won the Batting Championship. Recipient of the Viking Glove was Daryl Waller. All added up to the best baseball team in the history of Princeton.

Linksmen Land 2nd Spot In GMC, 16-5-2 on Year

Lugging golf clubs and bags over courses and putting two inches and then missing it — tribulations of varsity golf 1970-71. But varsity golfers drove to second in the GMC with a season record of 16-5-2. Junior Mike Eck had the best won-lost record with 14-4-2. The Vikings placed 5th in the sectionals while competing against 17 of the city's "Triple A" teams. Steve Etter, who received the title of "Most Valuable Golfer", averaged 38 strokes per round and achieved the honor of "Sectional Medalist". One of the past school records was surpassed by this year's varsity team as the four-man team of Steve Etter, Mike Eck, Doug Gragg, and John Eckhart stroked toward a team low of 152 at Sharon Woods early in May. The reserve and freshmen golf teams followed the tradition of varsity men and had records of 3-0 and 2-0, respectively. Reserve wins were against rivals Indian Hill, 8-1; Sycamore, 9-0; and Wyoming, 6½-2½. The freshmen golfers followed with victories over GMC opponent Middletown by scores of 9-0 and 8½-½. Varsity golfers set the precedent for the "younger" reserve and freshmen teams as they learned to accept the hardships of challenge being met on the rolling course.

First GMC Title Rewards Varsity Netmen As They Hit 13-4 Over-All Campaign

Sunburned faces, fatigued legs, and serving balls symbolized the champion varsity tennis team — 1970-71. Netting a season record of 13-4, the tennis team won the GMC championship for the 1st time in the history of the school with a record of 7-1. Number two man on the team was Dan Trout, who was selected as Most Improved Player. Charlie Pierce, recipient of the Most Valuable Player award, compiled a record of 8 wins and 0 losses in conference competition, and 18-4 on the season, while he advanced to district competition.

Flying Vikings Show Spirit As They Sprint To 2nd in GMC

Leaping hurdles and sweating out laps denoted the arduousness of creating a spirited team — track 1970-71. The "Flying Vikings" under new coach Frank Shands took a practice victory over Courter Tech, Hughes and Mt. Healthy. Placing 2nd out of 18 teams in the Oxford Sectional, the sprinters broke away to take the 2nd place at the Princeton Invitational and the GMC Meet. Numerous records were surpassed by this year's "Flyers" as shown when sophomore Dave Stanton set a new 2 mile run record of 9:43.0. A record of 57.3 was set in the 480 yard shuttle hurdle relay by Charlie Jenkins, Ty Cole, Mike Gayles, and Ken Willis. The same Vikings broke an older record of the 880 yard relay. Soaring through the air, Charlie Jenkins, high jumper, broke his last year's record of 6' and set it at 6'3". The track team depended on many Vikings but Most Valuable, Mike Gayles was essential to the group. By hard practice, Dave Stanton, elevated himself and won the title of Most Improved. Leading the way for his team and showing good sportsmanship was Ken Willis, winner of the Most Cooperative — the Frank Shands' Memorial — award. Making jumping a habit, Charles Jenkins was the Outstanding Field Performer.

Clad in New Ponchos, Vikettes Serve School

Dressed in their new red vests and plaid ponchos, the twenty-five senior Vikettes devoted themselves to school service. They performed numerous tasks such as collecting tickets at football games, ushering at dramatic productions and concerts, and guiding visitors through the school. They also helped serve at the Superintendent's Breakfast, worked at the Academic Fair and the Festival of Arts, and babysat for children at PTA council meetings. With smiles and a desire to help others, they represented the Princeton students.

Varied Programs Reflect Council's Concern For Princeton

Student Council — hard working . . . characterized by school spirit . . . concerned about Princeton High — met during alternate periods of the day once every two weeks and held meetings every other month at the South Campus. At the first meeting, Council made plans for Homecoming, and early in October, conducted freshman elections for officers and representatives. Other activities of Student Council included sponsoring pep buses for the away football games and tournament basketball games; running concession stands at basketball games; installing a "Coke" machine even though student misbehavior caused it to be removed within two months of installation; encouraging improved service and food quality in cafeteria and a liberalization of the dress code by meetings with a parent-faculty committee; sponsoring foreign exchange programs and endorsing Ohio People's Interest Action Group; conducting all-day workshops, led by Ray Terrell and Nancy Bruce, Princeton human relations specialists. Student Council also participated in eight exchange programs with such schools as Regina, Purcell, and Lakota. An interim government will operate until election next year; and during the summer, four delegates will attend Ohio Student Council workshops at Northern University, Ada, Ohio, for one week . . . working to keep the spirit of service.

Pep Club, Viking Lettermen
Promote School Spirit
By Group Cheering
And Performance in Athletic Events

A Princeton sweater, a pom-pom, and a stack of team tags are the definite signs of a Pep Club member. Spirited rahs and enthusiastic cheers could be heard every Wednesday from cheering practice in Matthew's Auditorium as members prepared for the Friday night football games and basketball games. The Viking Club, home of the varsity athletes, promoted school spirit with the purchase of a plaque for the G.M.C. and display of more than 100 trophies that stand in the trophy room.

Tri-Hi-Y, Youth for Christ
Devote Efforts To Help Others
At Halloween, Christmas

The year began with pumpkin-face cookies, candy corn, and smiles as Tri-Hi-Y girls gave a Halloween party at St. Rita's. Bake sales and candy sales provided money to send ten delegates to Columbus in April for the Youth in Government Program at which Endy Mackey Paula Holmes, Debbie Reed, and Jan Purificato had bills passed by the model legislature. Meeting weekly, the Youth for Christ Club heard church speakers and, with money from candy sales, they donated Christmas baskets and to "Good Sam Fund" for needy students. Smiles (opposite page) illustrate happiness as Youth for Christ girls prepare food baskets for families at Christmas. Three Student Groups Seek Their Own Way Of Providing Service In School and Community "Service to others" — was the aim of both the Key Club and the Receptionists. The Key Club, in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club, dedicated itself to helping others within the school and within the community. Working with the Glendale PTA, they set up tables and booths at the Glendale May Fete. Willing members marched in the March of Dimes campaign in May, bringing in money to help handicapped children. A series of travelogues with slides and speakers from the world-over provided needed money for the scholarship fund. Typing, carrying messages, receiving phone calls with smiling faces distinguished the receptionists, always willing to help others by their services. Concerned with national and international issues, good grooming, and critical social issues, the Avon Panel conducted four separate surveys this year. After interviewing such people as housewives, state health officers, business owners, students and state representatives, they obtained a complete picture of what the public thinks about national and international issues of today.

Christmas Party, Displays, Collections
Reflect Varied Projects
By Cadet Librarians, Red Cross Group
In School-Community Service

Characteristic of other service clubs at Princeton, Cadet Librarians and Red Cross Council at the South Campus conducted a variety of projects this year for the benefit of students, staff, and the community at large under sponsorship of Mrs. Myram White. Cadet Librarians held their annual Christmas party for staff members at the South Campus — serving dozens of types of cookies cake and punch prepared by students for their teachers. They also participated in Book Week in mid-November and National Library Week

April 18 by preparing displays for the Annex Building. Twenty Cadet Librarians attended the Student Library Association conference at Wittenburg University, Springfield, April 18. The Red Cross Service group raised $23.10 through 10¢ memberships in fall as a donation to the Red Cross youth activities downtown. Three delegates from the Annex — Donna Grant, Beverly Williams and Georgianna Pritchett — attended meetings monthly at the Cincinnati Chapter House.

Talent Is Trait Of NFL, Thespians

Many of the most talented students at Princeton can be found among the ranks of two nation-wide clubs — National Forensic League and the International Thespian Society. Princeton debaters and speakers collected honors from Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky as total wins added up to seven first-place debate trophies this year, and senior Harriet McGee placed fourth in state for dramatic interpretation in speech. Thespian members also kept busy with four plays. Starting out with the first repertory theater at Princeton, Thespians produced simultaneously in the fall The Lilies of the Field and Summertree. In February, the delightful children's play Many Moons was next in line on the agenda. In May, the talented 60-member troupe of Carousel stepped onto the stage and played four nights with professional perfection as Thespians and NFL members put in another full year.

Honor Society Inducts 95 In Ceremony On April 26

Gold pins and membership cards signified the entrance of 95 new members into the National Honor Society at the annual induction ceremony on April 26. The opening remarks by president Bob Akers stressed the importance of learning. These were followed with an administrative message by Dr. Johnson. Scholarship, leadership, character, and service, the basic creed of fellow Honor Society students, were outlined by the officers of the club. Punch, cookies, pictures, and musical entertainment completed the eventful night. Contrasting attire at the June picnic consisted of cut-off jeans and T-shirts. Planning ahead, new officers were elected between baseball playing and eating.

Field Trips, Exchanges Highlight Language Clubs

Nickels and dimes from chocolate brownies, vanilla cupcakes, and brightly colored stationery piled up and helped finance an exchange program sponsored by the International Club. In late summer, junior Nancy Slusher left to spend a semester in Denmark, returning early in January. At the same time, two European students, Till Wendt and Lena Perhag, from Germany and Sweden, came to spend the year at Princeton. Hors d'oeuvres, bricole, and cafe du lait, typical French dishes, headed the menu at the French restaurant Pigall's, when the International Club sponsored a field trip there in early March. While soaking up Russian culture and history, the Russian Club also enjoyed themselves during the three movies they attended at the University of Cincinnati this year: Ivan the Terrible, There Was an Old Couple, and The Apprentice. Russian delicacies and the traditional attire of the country topped off the year at the Annual Russian Banquet on April 15. Twenty third and fourth-year honored Spanish students were inducted into the Spanish Honor Society this year, setting a record high at the annual ceremony in December.

Concern for World Conditions Guides Participation By Members In JCWA, Ecology and Welding Clubs

Ecology Club, Junior Council on World Affairs, and Welding Club met varied needs of students. Ecology club encouraged love of beauty by two nature hikes in Sharon and Winton Woods and sponsored April Earth Week at Princeton, which featured speakers from Zero Population Growth and Armco Steel Company. Silver maples, box elders, and buckeyes were just a few of the trees planted by the Ecology Club in the new outdoor lab behind the school. The newly organized JWCA sought to increase awareness about United States foreign and domestic policy while studying the world situation. Delegations were sponsored for city-wide conferences, 25 students from both campuses went in fall to Edgecliff, representing Iraq and Cambodia. Junior Scott Hoekenga won "Best Delegate" award. Chuck Leach and Jeff Cover also attended an institute on China in Cincinnati in spring. The Welding Club spent alternate Mondays after school forging a world in metal as they developed new skills.

Long Hours of Work, In-Depth coverage Bring Odin's Word Staff National, Local Honor

Typewriters clicked far into the night while Odin's Word editors and adviser Mr. Donnelly met deadlines for 13 four-page and two eight-page issues during the school year. Trying to give in-depth, carry-across-the-page features ranging from the Calley court martial and potential changes in military service . . . to Junior Achievement . . . race relations . . . campus unrest . . . the place of mass media in a free society, the staff prepared a newspaper for some 3,500 students and staff members at the high school and Princeton District, which won praise locally and nationally. Participating in the yearly Miami Valley High School Journalism Association spring conference at Centerville High School April 24, the newspaper won second place in the grand award as "Best Newspaper" in 11 counties of Southwestern Ohio . . . took first place in photography for Gordon Morioka's photo of gymnast Dan Carpenter in the Christmas issue and second place for best feature with Randy Dimond's discussion on Hendrix and Joplin in the March 2 issue. Receiving a First Class Honor Rating from the National Scholastic Press Association for the first semester, Odin's Word won marks of distinction in "Writing/Editing" and "Editorial Leadership".

Student Prince Meets Its Own Challenge In 1970 — 1971

Challenges came in all forms as the 1970 — 1971 Student Prince staff set to work creating a book to surpass the nationally acclaimed annual — Encounter '70. The split campus and split school days made communication among yearbook staff members themselves — and with the rest of the student body — most challenging, but P.A. announcements and daily bulletin notices helped spread word about the fall sales campaign — during which 1025 subscriptions were sold . . . 85 less than in 1969-70 — and about candid/action as well as group/organization pictures to be taken. But

"hanging in together" as deadlines brought fulfillment to extensive planning and preparation, the staff created new approach to endsheets, to theme development, and to grouping of related organizations within individual sections of the book. The staff struggled to create this book as a treasure of memories . . . a record of facts for the year of consolidation — 1970 — 1971 . . . set through a 296-page yearbook, keeping in mind the coveted "Triple Crown" won by the 1970 book — All-American, NSPA, U. of Minnesota; Medalist, Columbia U.; and A+, National School Yearbook Association.

Memphis, Tenn., as well as words of H. Stephen Carlson, associate editor of Photolith magazine, Memphis, about the 1970 Student Prince in the January, 1971, issue: "You weren't satisfied with second best. You went for the big casino. You went for the best you could make your book." . . . "If achieving the best, the very best was worth it, the Student Prince, 1970, was worth it." As staff members of the 1971 Student Prince completed final layouts, they hoped that the 1971 book would be worth as much as 1970's — that it would meet the challenges of reporting adequately the 1970 —

1971 school year . . . that it would give to all subscribers a treasured portrayal of challenges met — 1970/71.

Student Writers Discover Opportunities In Print

Many Princeton students found opportunities in journalistic and creative writing this year. Seven Vikings — Jeff Cover, Al Friedman, Judy Johnson, Gordon Morioka, Mike Schmidt, and Donna and Nancy Tunison — worked with Mr. Donnelly on a full-page of feature stories about Princeton in the Teen-Ager of December 12. Other journalists found expression in print as Randy Wagner wrote sports stories for the Suburban Press and Union Times and Al Friedman wrote for the Enquirer and the Post and

Times-Star. Based upon excellence in journalism work and place among the top third of their class, 16 students were inducted as new members of Quill and Scroll during the yearly Journalism Banquet at David's Buffet with yearbook and newspaper staff members on June 6, and the Princeton chapter also won its fourth consecutive national award from the international honor society based upon over-all observance of National Newspaper Week, October 4-10. Included was an assembly for seniors conducted cooperatively with senior social science teachers, at which Chuck Hubbs, managing editor of the Enquirer, and Bob Jones, news director of WKRC-TV, spoke on responsible reporting. The Creative Writing Class and Club, led by Mr. Engle, published The Princeton Pen, the yearly anthology of best creative writing here; and writers whose poetry or stories appeared in outside publications included Linda Marx, Bev Grafton, Dave Green, Connie Scott, Jim Spraul, Bill Elder, Michael Dean, Barb Hammond, Endy Mackey, Tony Snow, Sally Huber, Marilyn Lewis, Maryellen Corliss, Vicki Dykes, Billi Johnson, Melva Saylor, Ramona Spencer and Vicki Jessup; and nine students attended a workshop at Ashland College with Mr. Engle and Mr. Meagon, April 17.

Variations in Communications Follow Service By Aides, Art Volunteers, And Interracial Club

Reflecting variations in modern communications while providing service to faculty and students were Audio Visual Aides, who delivered projectors, tape recorders, and record players and operated video equipment in classrooms and assemblies; Library Aides, who supplemented efforts in cataloguing books and magazines by conducting book fairs in fall and spring; and Volunteers in Art, who created displays throughout the building this year. Representing a different type of communications was the new Princeton Interracial Club. Fervent and uninhibited discussions sparked understanding between the races during meetings every other week. The cafeteria, decorated with intertwined black and white crepe paper and colorful balloons, was the scene of a social gathering, which brought black and white together on a Saturday night in the cafeteria on February 13. After providing a buffet dinner and entertainment for visiting track teams participating in the Viking Relays, PIC members housed the runners overnight. They sponsored four candidates, two of whom were selected as queens for the Relay.

Co-Op Clubs Help Students To Encounter Outside World

Preparing students to encounter the world of business and industry, the five vocational clubs at Princeton have had a successful year. Saving hard-earned money, three thrifty Occupational Work Club members won awards for having the largest savings account accumulation for the year from their job earnings. These awards were presented at the awards breakfasts held at Howard Johnson's in May by sponsors, Mrs. Harris and Mr. Williams. Painted red scooters, lovable stuffed animals and games brightened Christmas for children at the Mid-Western Orphanage, Milford, when the 45 girls in Cooperative Office Education succeeded in collecting and wrapping over 150 gifts for the orphanage Christmas party in December. Members from the OWE and the two COE groups attended the annual Cooperative Education Banquet April 27 with 525 Cooperative Education students, parents and employers.

Job Experience, Tours, Honors Reward Efforts Of Co-Op Clubs

Experience, training and determination resulted in a worthwhile year for students belonging to DECA, VICA, and other cooperative education groups. At the November regional conference in Colerain High School, senior Linda Gertz was named Regional VICA Queen. An address by Governor Gilligan, tours of Supreme Court chambers, and state house and senate buildings took place in March when seven students from the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America accompanied sponsor Mr. Gilbert to Columbus to examine the operation of state government. Hammering dents from a fender and repairing wrecked cars kept senior Paul Meyer of Diversified Training busy at the state-wide April convention of VICA, where he received a gold award for his work in an automotive body and fender repair. Four seniors participated in local competition sponsored by the Distributive Education Clubs of America in February at Colerain H.S. Bruce Guthrie placed first in public speaking; Dan Johnson placed first in income tax preparation, Dennis Moses in display, and Diane Keith in the Miss Ohio DECA category. All students ended their year at the annual Cooperative Educational Banquet on April 27. Scrumptious fried chicken and mashed potatoes were served to the 525 attendants by juniors of the Cooperative Food Service Education Program, COE, and DE. WLW Radio's "Copter Cop", Lt. Jim Stanley, was the main speaker at the event, following a brief welcome by Dr. Robert E. Lucas, superintendent of the Princeton City Schools, and by retiring administrative assistant Mr. Luke.

70 Students Enjoy Fine Music In Orchestra

The 70 Princetonians who participated in the Orchestra this year widened their horizons by developing an understanding and enjoyment of fine music. A new ensemble was formed — a chamber orchestra of 16 wind and string instrumentalists. On November 1 the orchestra season opened with a concert at the Academic Fair. Selected students participated in the Southwest Regional Orchestra in Mid-November. Young attentive faces greeted the orchestra at the annual elementary school tour in late fall. A beautiful mixture of voices and orchestration prompted the Christmas spirit with the performance of Handel's Messiah in December. The annual state solo and ensemble contest in February brought honor to talented students, followed by the Festival of Arts concert the next day. Ronald Aaron of the Cincinnati Symphony was the featured viola soloist at the spring concert. Hard work led up to the production of Carousel in May. The final performance of the orchestra at Baccalaureate ended a successful year.

A Cappella Sings Tricky Rhythms, Wins 'Superior'

Nonsense songs and nursery rhymes, tricky rhythms and snapping rests — all added to excitement of the A Cappella Choir, winner of a "Superior" rating in the spring choral contest sponsored by Ohio Music Education Association. The Christmas season was filled with in-school and local activities as A Cappella members joined others in presenting Handel's Messiah on December 6 to a standing-room-only audience. Then the Choir sang at Glendale Elementary School, alternating songs with Glendale children. Finishing the Christmas season, the A Cappella Choir, led by Mrs. Meier, performed traditional and modern songs at the Christmas concert, given December 22 in Matthews Auditorium. Many of the Choir's members participated in Carousel, weathering hours of lost sleep and missed leisure time. The feminine additions to Princeton's singing students are the Girls Choruses. This trio of choruses, led by Mr. Pugh, sang at Tri-County this winter, then participated in the Christmas Concert. On May 25, these girls combined with A Cappella and Princeton Singers girls to present a satire on male superiority, at the spring choral concert. All of these choirs worked year-round to bring music into the lives of hundreds of people in and around Cincinnati . . . as they presented their varied repertoire to groups of all ages within Princeton and beyond the halls of the school.

Learning Fundamentals, Performing at School Events Comprise Music Life Of Young Choral Groups

Tired lungs, strained vocal chords, and hard-working, enthusiastic students made up the choral groups at Princeton. Herds of greenhorn freshmen learning the fundamentals of music comprised the three Cadet Choruses, which served as a training group for more advanced choirs. Predominantly made up of juniors, the performing Princeton Singers vocalized at a variety of events including the Academic Fair on November 1, the Messiah Christmas concert, and the Festival of Arts in March. Early in May they sang at the funeral of sophomore Mark Culpin. Boisterous, booming, bellows from the fellows in the Viking voices were heard at the Festival of Arts, the Messiah, and Christmas concert in December.

Band Melody Dances in Hall As Groups Meet Practice

The melody of a lone silver flute danced sprightly down the hall . . . a clarinet ran up and down a chromatic scale . . . a tuba reached out and touched the depths of sound as bands practiced daily for performances. Playing a variety of musical selections, bands were kept busy performing at the Academic Fair, the Winter Band Concert, and the Festival of Arts. In March, the Concert Band recieved a "Superior" rating in the state contest at Miami University. The Pep Band kept spirit high during basketball season, playing at home games, in senior homeroom, and in the lobby as students made their way to the busses on Friday afternoons. The German Band had a uniquely quaint, happy sound, putting smiles on faces as it played at the Festival of Arts dinner. Pretty, smiling majorettes and drum majors led the band on the field despite cold fingers while band officers served as honorary leaders.

Marching Band Divides in Two At Conclusion Of Fall Season

Nights of rhythmic drum cadences, half-time shows, and yellow buses full of shivering, laughing band members came to an end once again as the larger-than-ever fall 150 member Marching Band broke down into the Concert and Viking Bands. For winter and spring, broken reeds, b flat scales, and continuing measures came into the scene as the concert season began. Through music, the Viking band added to the beauty of Christmas at an in-school Christmas assembly. The 100-piece Cadet Band — almost bursting out of its seams — put on an excellent half-time show in fall. The Stage Band, a newly-organized group, had a sound completely different from any other Princeton band as the group played popular pieces with some rock, some jazz. This year's Brass Choir received an "Excellent" rating at district contest. The Clarinet Choir, directed by Mr. Atkinson, played Dixieland and religious pieces, as the Princeton Music Department, through its choirs and bands, provided music all year.

Student Council, Christmas, Cheerleading Highlight

Freshmen experiencing involvement in their first Student Council meeting, junior Santa Claus and Pixie promoting Christmas spirit, and cheerleaders anticipating the opening game reflect spirit throughout the 1970-71 school year. Underclass involvement in school activities are highlighted in the Junior Class Portrait Section, pages 214-225, by junior spirit, Homecoming, and class officers and conferences. Activities are exhibited in the Sophomore Class Portrait Section, pages 226-237, through varied talents, sports, Homecoming, and class officers, while freshmen challenge activities in the Freshmen Class Portrait Section, pages 238-251, with "new" class officers, Homecoming, science, Frosh-More Frolic, Spirit Week, and exams.

Juniors Prove Spirit, Climaxing Efforts With Highest Collection During Spirit Week

Juniors proved class spirit many times during 1970-1971. One of the biggest projects which they accomplished was providing money for Mrs. Pauline Stewart, an invalid at Christ Hospital who is currently living with the aid of a kidney machine. In mid-December, class members of the Annex and Central Campus joined in all all-out effort to raise money for bandages for Mrs. Stewart. The effort was rewarding. Such activities as homeroom competition, and selling doughnuts and pizzas, resulted in a total of $454 to be given to Mrs. Stewart. The juniors also sponsored a Christmas dance, at which the "Motown Masters" and the "Organization" provided the entertainment. Right before Christmas, members of Princeton were probably surprised to see Santa Claus (Steve Sexton) and his pixies (Philip Davies, Jeff Leicher, and Fred Smith) walking the halls. Another all-out effort was put forth during Spirit Week.

Juniors led in total collections with $1,061.25, a $1.96 average for 541 Central Campus juniors. Selling food and holding auctions created enthusiasm. Juniors say, "Watch out, underclassmen, for next year 1972 spirit will reign again."

Frosh Complete First Year at PHS With New Experiences, Exciting Events

The class of '74 found 1970-1971 a year for new and exciting events . . . a year of remembering all the football and basketball games with their challenging opponents. Homecoming, 2001, was a success with Steve Nagel and Angela Brown representing the Freshmen Class. The Frosh-More Frolic on December 11 brought enjoyment to many, as students participated in swimming, basketball, dancing, and ping pong. At Christmas time the decorated halls and office reflected the beauty and warmth that all Frosh shared at this time. Late in the winter, more than 50 Princeton High School ninth-grade students won superior or excellent ratings at the Ohio Music Education Association District contest, showing their talents in music. Spirit Week made 812 freshmen give up extra lunch money for awhile to store all their energy for Mr. Pryor's magic show and for the pizza party won by homeroom 421. Two other homerooms showed their spirit and bought a pizza party for $65 and $59. All together frosh spirit went up to $937.46. At the year's end, the freshmen looked forward to making an even better Spirit Week out of next year. Anticipating, they look ahead to be sophomores.

spectively. Class counselors Mr. O'Cull and Miss Callison face desks piled high with work taking care of more than 800 freshmen as class represents first step in total merger, combining Lincoln Heights and Princeton students.

Hours of Preparation, Work 'Behind the Scenes'

Mark Service in Life of FACULTY, STAFF

Preparation by teachers for the 1970-1971 year included attendance at different workshops, such as demonstrations in use of new audio-visual equipment, while the school year itself found sponsors of organizations; drama/musical productions, and publications spending long hours at Princeton after the close of the regular school day. These and other facets of faculty/staff services are illustrated by candid pictures amid portraits within these pages of the Faculty Section — Board and Central Office, pages 254-255; high school administration, pages 256-257; counselors, pages 258-259; teachers, pages 260-269; and the wide variety of service people, 270-271.

Board, District Staff Direct Efforts To Maintain Quality, Create Understanding

Entering the sixteenth year for the Princeton City School District and the thirteenth year for Princeton High School, the School Board and Central Office staff gave top priority to seven major goals: continuing to provide highest quality education for every Princeton student . . . completing successfully the Princeton-Lincoln Heights merger . . . creating an atmosphere of understanding and mutual respect by human relations program and workshops . . . providing in-service training to help staff cope with change . . . building two-way communication through community advisory committees and councils . . . meeting state requirements in vocational education by joining the Hamilton County Joint Vocational School District, which will provide more courses at less cost than Princeton could alone . . . and completing the first phase of the Intermediate School, while overseeing construction of an 800-student addition at the Junior School.

With his wife seated at his side (opposite page), Mr. Bodenbender acknowledges gift presented by teachers at his retirement party early in February. Coffee cup and smiles typify the happy spirit at the faculty afternoon tea in the high school cafeteria during the week before Christmas as Mr. Luke and Mr. Starr chat together.

Effective Merger Of Educational Programs At Split Campus Challenges Administrators

Administrators faced new challenges this year as they had to bring about the effective merger in the educational programs of the Central Campus and the Annex, while overseeing the development of separate schedules for some 2950 students during the second semester as well as the first semester. Weekly meetings between administrators, meetings with students, teachers, and community groups served as important means of communications in bringing about understanding of goals to be met and problems to be overcome. Special workshops in human relations supplemented by a variety of in-service training programs for the school's professional and operational staff helped smooth the transition. Supplementing the educational program offered at the two campus during the day, the Princeton Adult Evening School enrolled 666 students in 36 courses during the first semester and 449 students in 39 different courses for self-improvement or for credit during the second semester in classes ranging from antiques to English to woodworking.

Registration for first semester of adult evening school (opposite page) finds Mr. Lyday explaining program to prospective students early in September. Library at the Annex provides setting for Christmas social sponsored by Cadet Librarians for staff members, who include Mr. Starr, associate principal, and Miss Caver, librarian. Opening day of school gives Mr. Gaenge, assistant principal, an opportunity to welcome students to the 1970-1971 academic year. Answering a student's question, Donald Johnson, principal, B.S., M.S., Ed.D., talks with seniors during homeroom in one of many class meetings throughout the year.

School Counselors Help Students Plan Schedules, Prepare for Future

Counselors working with students helped them plan their schedules, discussed their problems — school and personal — participated in various school activities, helped guide students for their following years in PHS and in the world outside. Miss Callison and Mr. O'Cull helped freshmen know the school. Mr. Durden and Mr. Braun gave I.T.E.D. tests to more than 720 sophomores. Mrs.

Browder helped juniors plan for their last year here. Mrs. Glover worked with 350 students in grades 10 — 12 at the Annex. Mr. Wothe helped seniors make the transition to life beyond Princeton. Miss Meyer kept aware of college requirements, visiting more than 35 colleges from New England to the Midwest and South, while Mr. Mallon, school security officer and police counselor, traveled throughout the Princeton District in drug education programs.

Over-the-shoulder shot (opposite page) of senior counselor Mr. Wothe draws smile about anticipated victory as Vikings prepare for game on home court. Black history display in main lobby showcase receives finishing touches by junior/sophomore counselor Mr. Durden. Frosh sign for Spirit Week brings class message to main lobby as Miss Callison and Mr. O'Cull prepare to hang up the greeting for upperclassmen. College consultant Miss Meyer checks descriptive folder with her secretary, Mrs. Phelps.

Service People Help Keep Princeton In Operation

Cooks, secretaries, custodians, and bus drivers played an important part in the operation of PHS. While cooks prepared meals daily for more than 3,100 students and staff members, they used 300 pounds of ground beef per day and served between 15,000 and 18,000 cartons of milk per week. Secretaries met challenges preparing driving permits, issuing late slips, typing, filing, manning the phone, typing thousands of letters and reports. Custodians kept the school clean, walking miles of corridors, keeping the rooms heated, cleaning the pool, keeping machinery working. The 67 bus drivers of the district transported some 8000 students of the Princeton district, and their vehicles consumed 3,740 gallons of gasoline per month as they traveled 538,284 miles this year.

Think About It

Our system is one whose handiwork has made our ancient and venerable Republic the envy of the Globe, a system that has bestowed upon the humblest among us luxuries and conveniences that were beyond the dreams of even the most affluent of our forebearers.

Patrons Send Their Greetings to PHS Students

Remembering Walter Reuther's intense interest in education at all levels, the Executive Board of Local 863, U.A.W. in behalf of its members extends congratulations and best wishes for success and happiness to the 1971 graduating class of Princeton High School.

"I'm proud of the role the American labor movement has played historically in fighting to make education possible for everyone's child. We share the belief that every child is made in the image of God and that every child ought to have the right to an educational opportunity that will enable that child to grow intellectually and spiritually and culturally — not limited by antiquated classrooms, overcrowded classes, or underpaid teachers, but limited only by the capacity which God gave that child to grow, and by none other."
